THE PHILOSOPHER CHILD

How to Teach Children to Think for Themselves

Jordi Nomen Recio

- A perfect tool to work philosophic intelligence with children, very important for their education and human development.
- It includes a brief essay about the subject and eleven practical chapters about the big questions of philosophy.
- The author is one of the creators of the pedagogic program of Sadako school, very prestigious in Barcelona, awarded with the Ensenyament award in 2015.

Children are little big philosophers with a great capacity of amazement and an infinite curiosity, two of the main qualities of philosophic minds.

The main purpose in The Philosopher Child is to offer families and teachers some of the most important questions that we have received from the history of western philosophy. Children will feel amazed with them and this will allow them to discover their philosophic condition and to use it for their personal and social development, transforming them in committed and active citizens.

The second part of the book is a brief pedagogic practical exploration of the subject in eleven questions, legacy of eleven philosophers of the western tradition, which will introduce critic, creativity, game and dialogue in children's education: Plato, Aristotle, Epicure, Seneca, Spinoza, Montaigne, Rousseau, Kant, Nietzsche, Wittgenstein, Arendt and Fromm.

With practical plastic exercises.

EDUCATING OURSELVES TO EDUCATE OUR CHILDREN

Neurolearning for Transforming Education

Rosa Casafont and Laia Casas

Mind and brain govern the physical, emotional and cognitive balance. Knowing this is a true revolution for educators.

A paradigm shift in our way of understanding the teaching-learning process shows a new orientation for educators. This book aims to offer the reader a synthesis of the latest discoveries both in the field of the study of the brain and in that of pedagogy to apply them for the benefit of the educational process.

Rosa Casafont is the creator of the "Thabit method", a methodology to apply knowledge of neuroscience in the field of education. Laia Casas is the creator of the "Educere method", which promotes educational change through emotional education. Together they propose a new approach based on these two methods so that it can become a pedagogical tool.

With practical exercises.

PRAISE OF DOUBT

Everything can be different

Victoria Camps

This is one of the most accessible texts of this author, a very prestigious philosopher in Spain. She criticizes the actual politic and media discourse.

Bertrand Russell said that philosophy is an exercise of skepticism. Learning to doubt means to take distance from everything known and to question topics and prejudices. This doesn't mean to refuse it but examine it, analyse it, reason it and finally decide. This book is a history of doubt from the beginning philosophy's history, from Plato and Aristotle to Descartes, Spinoza, Hume or Nietzsche.

WHAT DO I KNOW?

The Philosophy of Michel de Montaigne

Jaume Casals

Montaigne's thinking in the context of philosophy and the history of ideas written by one of his biggest connoisseurs.

What does it mean to read Montaigne today? Why readers are so enthusiastic with a thinker who already was read and admired in his birth century? This book is perfect for anybody who wants to introduce himself in Montaigne's philosophy.

Michel de Montaigne is a relevant figure in the literature of the Renaissance. It started writing when he was already aged. His thinking is collected in a single book that he re-wrote and updated for twenty years. This book contains his essais, meaning his proofs, his experiments, his temptatives.

What can the contemporary reader get from these essais? In this book Jaume Casals offers a wide range of answers related to philosophy and the history of ideas, but also other considerations more close to our lives in the 21st Century.

Jaume Casals is rector of Pompeu Fabra University since 2013. Philosophy professor and member of the Catalan Studies Institution. He also taught at Autonomous University of Barcelona and Paris VII University (Denis Diderot). His main investigation is the Greek origin of modern thinking. He has translated and edited works by Montesquieu, Montaigne, Berkeley and Bergson.

CAMELIA AND PHILOSOPHY

Adventures of a Young Student

Juan Antonio Rivera

A narrative essay about the initiation to philosophy of a young girl and her school fellows. A pageturner book that you can't leave until you finish it. It meets Sofia's World and The Dead Poet's Club. A dialogue between philosophy and science, popular culture and real life. A book that will captivate students, teachers, scientists and humanists.

Camelia is a young girl who, as many others, is worried about her self image and the development of her intelligence. She wants to know, and lucky her, she finds what she is looking for in her philosophy classes. A very special exchange of letters with her philosophy teacher in which she will discover astonishing truths: happiness and chance, lack of will and the things that you can't get only with will, the evolutive intelligence and rationality, the source of motivation, the free will and other metaphisic puzzles. Camelia and her friends will be captivated by the fact that their teacher doesn't talk about history of philosophy but about science and daily life.

WATCH THE SKIES!

The Philosophy of Science-Fiction

Luis Miguel Ariza

What does Neo represent in Matrix? Is Star Trek a kind of optimistic, liberal and cosmopolitan vision of what the future of globalization could be? Why are we so angry that in Star Wars the same battle between good and evil is repeated? It is clear that Independence Day is a patriotic and nationalist film, but would we be able to explain exactly why it is so? What do our society and Matrix have in common? What political ideologies and social anxieties are exposed in Terminator?

Science fiction films are fed in equal parts of a story plot and philosophical-political reflection. Science fiction aims to entertain the viewer, but also aims to activate their critical and creative intuition, their drive to know and to think the world.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF NONVIOLENT COMMUNICATION

How to Solve Conflicts in a Positive Way

Pilar de la Torre

Do we really know what we need? Do we know how feel the people around us? When we are in a conflict, do we speak with empathy or with anger?

This work, written by an international expert in NVC, presents the basic concepts of this discipline and a wide range of practical cases that we can use in our daily life.

What is Violent Communication?

Every communication act that drives the other person to go away or close up, even if our intention is positive.

What is Nonviolent Communication?

Everything we say or not, we do or not, and that provokes a feeling of caring and empathy in the other person. We can use NVC in our daily life to listen the others and to improve our personal relationships. NVC focuses on the identification of violence in our behavior. Even when we want to do something good, sometimes we can hurt the other. The point is to create an inner space in which we make grow a wish for caring, be kind and improve our relationships with other people in a positive way.

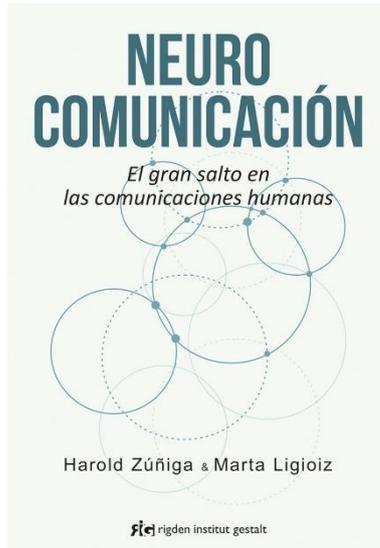

Pilar de la Torre is a Spanish Psychologist and Psychotheapist, IFS mentor, Gestalt therapist certified at l'École Parisienne de Gestalt and the Institut Belge de Gestalt-Thérapie. She is certified at the Center for Nonviolent Communication. She has been offering seminars and speeches around the world for 20 years.

THE HISTORY OF FLIES AND MOSQUITOES

And their Influence in the Future of Humanity

Xavier Sistach

The incredible history of two groups of insects that have killed more people than all the wars in the world.

Flies and mosquitoes live with us since the beginning of history, but they are thousands of years older than us. They are small and seemingly harmless but they had a main role as transmitters of infectious diseases, some of them terrible, and they have change the course of history in many occasions.

History, medicine, biology and entomology are merged in this wonderful essay in order to explain to us the natural, scientific and cultural history of these insects, full of events and curiosities, mistakes and astounding discoveries. Nevertheless the diseases transmitted by flies and mosquitoes were not only important in the past. In our interconnected world they are still a menace for our planet.

OCEANS FISH & FOOD

A Cultural History of the Seas

Óscar Caballero

A wonderful bazaar of cultural, scientific, geographical and historical curiosities about the sea and fish.

This book is immersed in the cultural and social history of seas and oceans to know, among many other things, the unique life of the fish that we will later find on the table. A brand-new table, because fresh fish and seafood are rabidly contemporary novelties. The first railroad and the plane later were ripped out of salt, smoked, dried and pickled, which for centuries allowed them to endure long sailings in the sea and on horseback on land. The fish, its boom, its politicized extinction, its cuisine and its fraud are traits of identity of our contemporary culture.

- Although life was born in the sea, science did not begin to study its depths until barely two centuries ago.
- Did you know that the boreal whale is immune to cancer? Biologists are studying why.
- More than 90% of marine species generate their own light. What if we copy his chemical reaction to illuminate cities without electricity? Sandra Rey is working on it since 2013.

THE WAY OF BUDDHA AND FREUD

How to Transform Pain in Wisdom with Meditation and Psychoanalysis

Jean-Charles Bouchoux

Suffering and anger, like fear and anguish, are often considered as brakes in the path of our personal evolution and development. However, these emotions can become trampolines that help us grow and improve.

With this objective, Jean-Charles Bouchoux uses two disciplines that, although coming from very different contexts, consider complementary: meditation and psychoanalysis.

The first part of the book covers the history and theory of both traditions to know the multiple aspects they have in common. In the second part, full of testimonies of patients and reflections of the author and therapist, it is addressed in what concrete way we can apply the techniques of meditation and psychoanalysis to reverse our negative emotions and accelerate our healing and strengthen our personal and spiritual development.

Jean-Charles Bouchoux is a psychoanalyst, psychotherapist and author of The perverse narcissists, a book whose success has consolidated him as one of the most respected international voices in the treatment of narcissistic perversion.

SUGAR: SWEET POISON

Miguel Angel Almodovar

This book is certainly an account of bad news, but in the conviction that in the long run they will become good news.

This book is a handy daily handbook to avoid the risks of excessive consumption of sugar and especially the addition to every industrial and manufactured food. For this reason it will be recommended to return to eat real food, understanding for this the purchase of fresh foods to cook them at home, thus guaranteeing their innocuousness and healthiness; also be warmly encouraged to return to the habit of consuming the fruit in pieces and not in juices mostly considered "natural" but that, lacking fiber, provide the body with a flowing stream of liquid fructose that the liver, given the impossibility of metabolizing them its totality, is forced to convert into triglycerides that will go into the bloodstream, increasing the risk of suffering cardiovascular problems.

The reader will also be helped to select the varieties and pieces of fruit to be consumed daily, taking into account their higher or lower glycemic index, to keep the levels of circulating sugar in check, and to substitute with sugar criteria for healthy and exempt sweeteners risks to sweeten infusions, teas and coffees, while providing simple and highly satisfying pastries recipes practically free of added sugars, designed and designed by two specialized chefs.

LOOK AT YOU, LOOK AT THE UNIVERSE

Understanding Health through the Observation of Nature

Leonor Martín Monge

When the disease manifests means that healing is starting. By the time the patient becomes aware of the meaning of his illness, he is able to address the main objective: to resolve the conflict that has generated it.

Observing the body taking into account the constraints of the environment, our past and signals that nature sends us can help us feel the meaning of our disease.

The aim of this book is to provide tools for self-analysis and reflection as we face the disease. We can always draw a lesson from the signals of our body. The disease is ultimately a phase of "outplacement" of our being in the universe. Healing will occur when we are honest with ourselves, we accept what once wanted to hide and give ourselves the truth. Every disease can be cured.

The relationship between Salvador Dalí and Federico García Lorca was intense but with a bitter end. There is no doubt about their influence on each other and how close they were for years. Their correspondence perfectly shows not only their daily lives and secrets but also how literature and arts merged in their careers changing their artistic visions and works. Víctor Fernández managed to show the unique link between the two artists with a rigorous selection of unpublished letters, post cards and drawings that marvelously reveal their intimacy. This book is the result of a

Economy

Stuart Holland

AGAINST THE HEGEMONY OF AUSTERITY (Contra la hegemonía de la austeridad)

Including the epilogue “A simple proposal to resolve the crisis of the Eurozone” by Yanis Varoufakis, J.K. Galbraith and Stuart Holland.

«When he writes about Europe, Stuart Holland is similar to Thomas Paine writing about de French Revolution, or to Keynes doing it about the economic consequences of peace.»

Yanis Varoufakis

This is one of the most important books to understand how the European Union has arrived to become the actual bureaucratic and neoliberal institution. It was never like this before. It was not in the agenda and it could have been different. This is what the author says while he narrates the big episodes of European construction relating them to his own story as a technical politician who has worked with many leaders since 1960 to build a confederal, social and democratic European project.

One of the most interesting points in this work is that this project never took shape. With his great economic, politic and social theory, Holland remembers the history of the EU from the view of the losing party, and shows to us how important is to review the different phases of its construction and to analyse the mistakes of the past.

Stuart Holland (1940) studied Economy, History and Politic Theory in Oxford University. He has been an economist and political consultant. He worked with Harold Wilson, the author of Laborist Party's economic program in the 70s, a member of the British Parliament from 1979 to 1989 and consultant to Jacques Delors for the creation of economic en social politics for the EU.

HAPPINESS HERE AND NOW, Jorge Cantero

Bestseller in Mexico

What is happiness? Is there an effective method to cultivate such durable states? From these questions, the psychologist Jorge Cantero proposes a series of lessons to learn to enjoy the present moment, to understand the potential of growth that contains each of the experiences that we live and, thus, to establish ourselves in full states of happiness.

From a practical and enjoyable approach, the therapist also invites us to transcend our comfort zones to understand that we can live in balance. It is not a book about happiness, but the opportunity to meet our true purpose.

If you are reading these words, it is because surely inside you there is a question, a gap, perhaps intellectual, or sentimental, that you have not been able to answer, that has brought you here. Let us take the journey together and see where it leads us.

(narrative non-fiction / communication)

 English translation available *****

"Do you still have this beautiful retreat in Menorca? Go there and watch your favorite landscape: the lighthouses. They can teach you a lot more than me. Look at them calmly and with eyes wide open..." This is what Max, an old friend and professor, said to Ferran after listening to his presentation and seeing that he had not been able to connect with the public. On the advice of Max, Ferran travels to Menorca in winter. Menorca is a small island in the Mediterranean. The five lighthouses on the island will give you the keys of the communication, the keys to make clear messages and effectively reach to our audience. This brief history will be useful for those who need to be heard at some point in their lives: teachers, parents, politicians, media...

THE CHEMISTRY OF RELATIONSHIPS, Ferran Ramon-Cortés
(communication)

Energy is neither created nor destroyed: it transforms. Relationships, however, are created, destroyed, and inevitably transform us. They are created if we are firmly determined to wanting to create them, and if we do what is necessary for that to happen. They are destroyed if we don't take care of them, or if we don't keep them alive, and if our behaviors jeopardize them. And they inevitably transform us due to the fact that we grow as professionals and as people who relate to others. To build relationships is an art, and everything we do for others has an effect in the relationships we entertain or that we create with them.

THE PERVERSE NARCISSISTS, Jean-Charles Bouchoux
(psychology)

Who are they? How they act? How to get rid of them?

Bestseller in France. Very interesting for his practical and commercial potential. It is clear and informative. It will be a great tool for victims. Every person that reads this book remember someone who should read it too.

It is not easy to identify a perverse narcissist in real life, when he is close to us and he is a father, a partner or a chief. And when you identify him it is difficult to get rid of him. This book describes the perverse narcissist personality: how they deny reality, how they blame the other, why it is difficult to go away from him... Through real cases the author analyses the origins of perversion, beginning in childhood, and offers clues for victims to fight against their will of manipulation.

DO YOU LIVE OR DO YOU SURVIVE? THE WORST STORM IS THE ONE IN YOUR HEAD, Sonia Cervantes
(self-help)

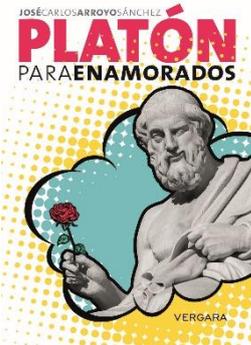

Have you ever thought about the things that make you feel sad? Do you really know how to enjoy life or do you only try to solve everyday problems? Have you ever wondered about how can be your life if you dare to live it intensely? Do you live or do you survive? This book is an invitation to get out the comfort zone. To be critic with yourself and to be proactive is the way to a better life. We have our right to complain, but we also have the duti to be better and go on growing up, to start living with happiness, goals and braveness.

The author analysis our inner dialogue, the anticipation worries, the procrastination, our unconscious beliefs, the emotional demagogy and many other facts that we use to forget.

TRUE LOVE: HOW TO FIND IT AND MAKE IT LAST, Montserrat Ribot
(psychology)

This is a guide for all the people who has problems to find a couple and who wish a healthy and lasting relationship. Everybody has found difficulties in finding the true love: we choose someone who isn't compatible with us, we forget to think with our heads because we are lead by our passion, we accept to suffer because we don't want to be alone... Our relationship becomes unbearable instead of a reason for happiness. Montserrat Ribot offers guide to find THE TRUE LOVE. Her advice offers clues on how to find the most convenient person and how to keep a good relationship through negotiation tools. To negotiate with your significant one is the best way to afford conflict and to prevent them.

BEYOND MATTER, Felix Toran
(spirituality)

In general, we are rather materialistic, to one degree or another. The material plane is necessary, and it is not at all a question of denying it or of fleeing it. However, it is also not appropriate to reduce everything to merely material. Indeed, within us there is an eternal and infinite spiritual dimension, which calls out to us, and we are beginning to hear it. Proof of this is the remarkable and ever-growing interest that can be seen in subjects such as meditation, mindfulness, spirituality, personal growth, the law of attraction, etc.

World Spanish rights: Ediciones B. September 2017

YOU ARE TALENTED, Felix Toran
(self-help)

You will discover that you have talent and something unique that you can offer to the world. The author offers clear and practical advice about how to build a successful and happy life, making your potential flow naturally. Felix Toran is an expert in personal growth, leadership and time management. Your mind will break up its comfort zone with this wonderful book, helping you to set goals, sintonizing the universal laws and avoiding toxic influences.

THE ANSWER OF THE UNIVERSE, Felix Torán
(self-development)

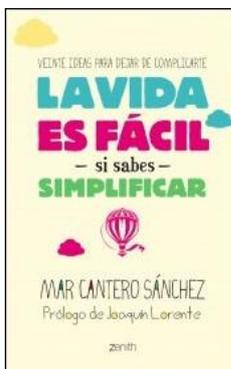

Did you know that you turn into everything that you wish, creating the life of your dreams deliberately? And, did you know that you can also feel all this for yourself with simple exercises, even using your computer? All this is possible thanks to the Law of the Attraction, which discovers us how thinking became into facts, which means that most of our time we became into all that we think. The author shows it with a practical training, examples and simple exercises that put into practice the knowledge acquired from the beginning.

HEALING FOODS, Jorge Pérez-Calvo
(health)

This book is a tour to the basics you should know to manage your health in the current environment. Unlike his previous works, Dr. Jorge Perez-Calvo focuses not only on the subject of nutrition, but on the 3 pillars of life: food, emotions and sexuality. From the point of view of energy medicine, all these aspects can be "managed" to live longer and happier. When we start to feed in a conscious way, we feel better, our energy level increases and we are more clear and vital. Diet and exercise may prevent certain moods such as irritability, chronic stress, apathy, melancholy, nervousness and even anxiety. Also, if we learn to manage our sexual energy we can also improve our health and vital energy. To be aware of how to manage our resources is the most appropriate way to live fully and prevent disease.
